selecont

Be yourself in every context

My friends will get this

Every story has its own audience.

I want to share this
with my family

This is for my colleagues

One profile.
Different contexts

Family, friends and colleagues, all in one account.

@grisha

Family photos and important moments.

Family

A photo with his grandmother after graduation.

@grisha

Inside jokes, meetups and plans for the evening.

Friends

Celebrating graduation with friends.

@grisha

Studies, projects and work results.

Colleagues

The graduation project and what he built.

@grisha

The public side of the profile.

Public

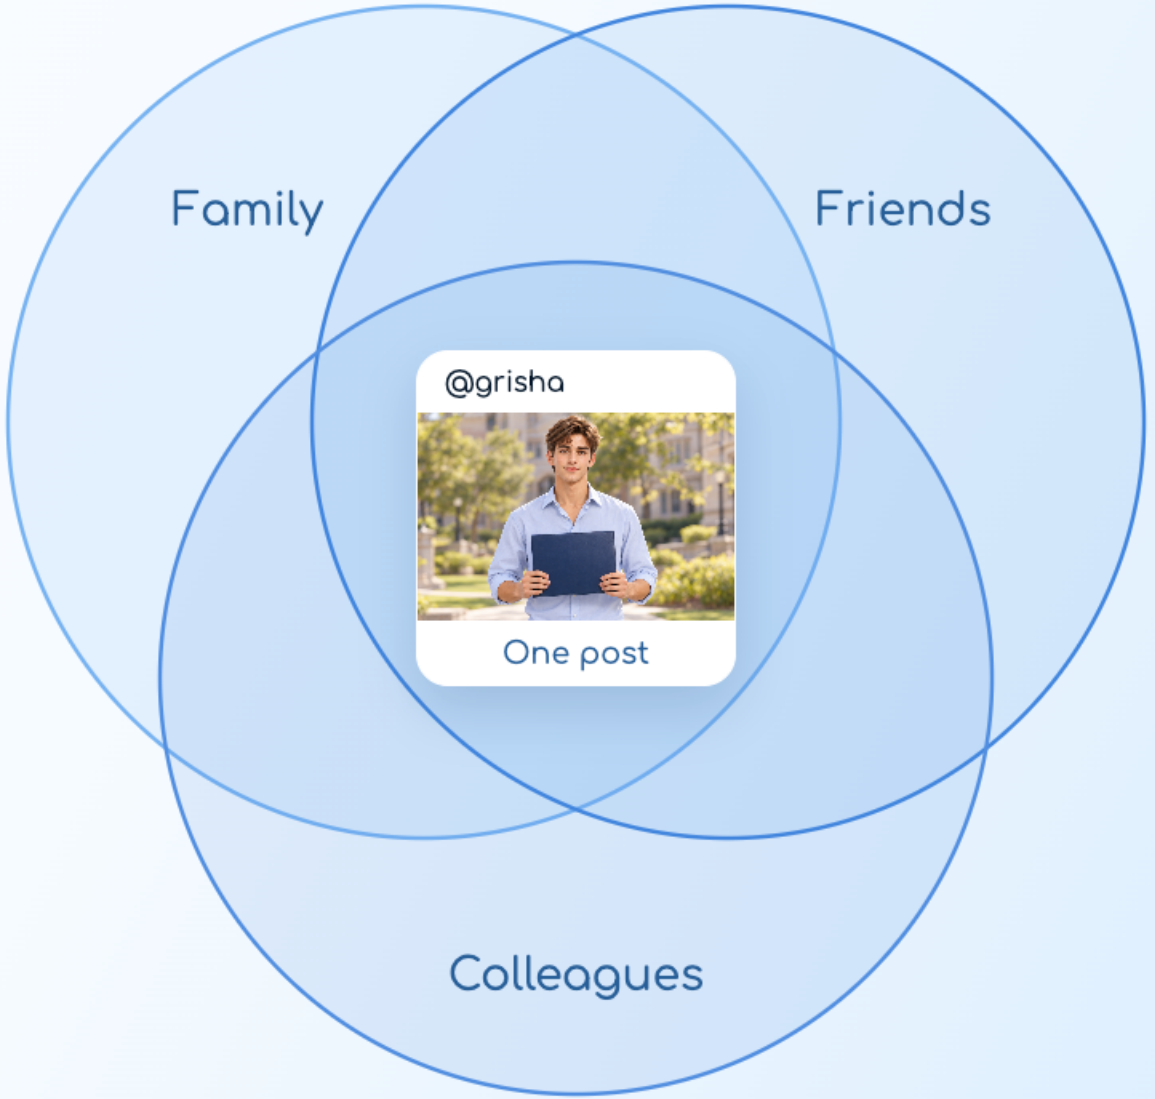

What Grisha chooses to share with everyone.

One post.
Three circles.

A graduation photo.
One post for selected audiences.

Grisha decides who can see it.

At the centre: one shared post.
Each circle is an audience.

Audience diagram · circles chosen by the author

One post.
Separate discussions.

Family

@grisha
Graduated. Diploma in hand!

Comments under the post

@mama
I remember walking you
to school on your first day.

Friends

@grisha
Graduated. Diploma in hand!

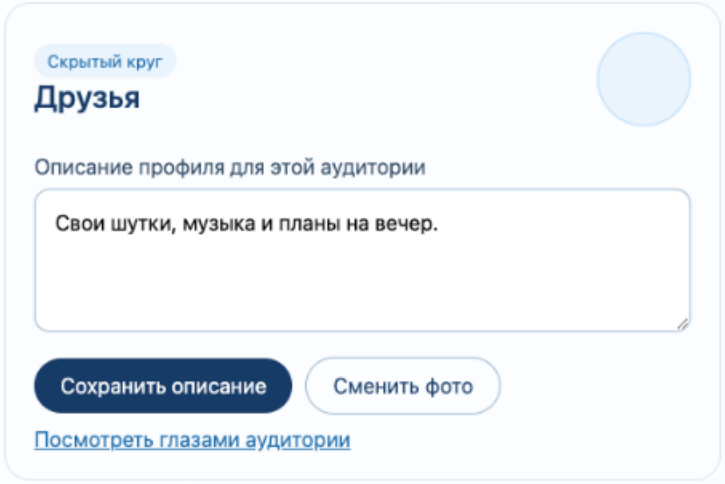

Comments under the post

@max
Will there be party
photos too?

Family sees its discussion. Friends see theirs.

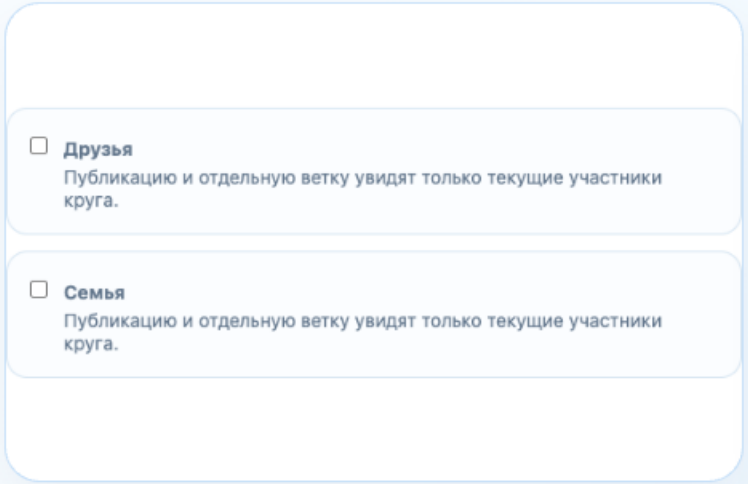

Core mechanics already work.

Circles and profiles

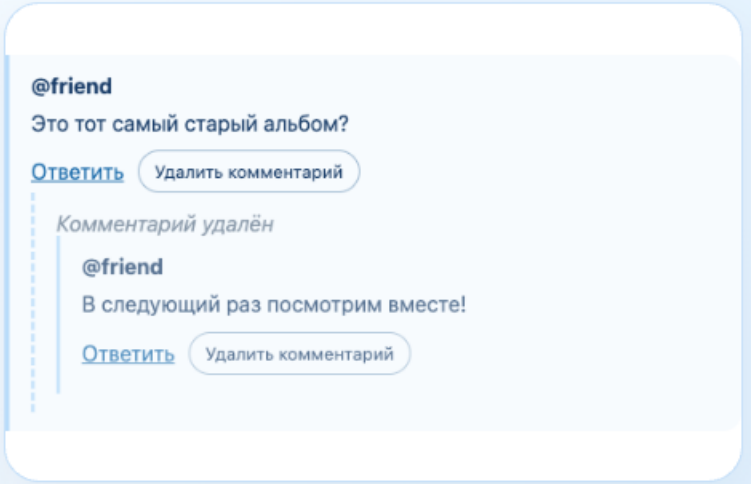

Different bios, photos and audiences

Publishing

One post for selected circles

Discussions

Replies, deletion and separate threads

Sign-in and sessions · following · photos · shared likes · access revocation

Local prototype · real screens with test accounts

Smart suggestions. Your choice.

- Before publishing
- Advises, never decides
- Never changes the audience itself
- The final choice stays yours

Future feature concept

The system suggests.
You choose the circle.

A suggestion recommends a suitable circle.
You confirm it or choose another.

The decision stays with the author.

selecont Plus

One possible revenue model is a subscription.

George Sapogovsky

ITMO student · founder of selecont

Find the first users.
Run the validation.

selecont

Be yourself in every context.